LEVEL ONE: Introduction Day

Theory & Practical

Level One: Introduction Day can simply be enjoyed as a one-day event for anyone who wishes to deepen their relationship with animals in a non-professional way.

Please Note: Level One is also required as part of the Earthall® Practitioner's Course.

This initial Level One Course combines Theory and Practical work; including the opportunity to consider and discuss why you are choosing to help animals. Ethics and animal welfare will be a part of this course. You will be practising meditation exercises to stay grounded and safe when working with animals. You will also learn how to communicate with their human carers. You will have the opportunity to practise basic energy healing with friendly animals. Understanding the necessary health and safety issues of helping animals is included and you will also be taught simple, gentle animal communication techniques. Instructive notes will be given as part of this course, so you can carry on practising at home and with your family's and friends' animals.

Level One Synopsis:

Reasons and motives for working with animals
Self-care/ Earthall® meditation techniques
Ethics of Earthall® animal therapy
Theory of animal energy healing and communication
Animal healing techniques and practice
Animal communication techniques and practice
Common sense and health and safety
Basic communication with the carers of animals

LEVEL TWO: Beginner

Theory & Practical

This second level of your course will concentrate mainly on hands-on practice with animals and on meditation techniques. The Earthall® meditations are specifically designed to protect you from being drained or upset while working. Meditation is important because it lifts negativity and balances your energy, as well as helping you to develop as a human being. The positive energy you emanate helps the animals you wish to work with to feel relaxed and safe with you. This leads to them accepting your healing and opening up to communicating with you.

You will also practice energy healing on other students as well as with the friendly resident rescued dogs. The other students can give you verbal feedback on the healing you give.

You will learn the theory and practice of distant-healing, including helping wild animals and farm animals in distress. You will start your written assignments following this Training Day. Your printed course notes will be given to you and also sent via email. Instructive notes about the work you have done on Level Two Training Day will be given with clear illustrations and exercises to help you develop your solo work. You will be encouraged to begin your case studies with animals of your choice, on this Training Day, as you will be ready to practice your skills, with other peoples' animals.

Level Two Synopsis:

Earthall® meditation techniques
Body language of dogs, cats and small mammals
Animal energy centres and their importance in healing
Animal healing techniques and practical hands-on work
Work in pairs, giving and receiving energy healing
Animal communication techniques and practical hands-on work
Distant healing theory
Distant healing group exercises
Group discussions on work done, plus questions
Course work and case studies begin after Level Two

LEVEL THREE: Intermediate

Theory & Practical

This third level of your course will involve more theoretical knowledge; including going more deeply into the ethics and techniques of working with companion animals, rescued animals, farm and wild animals. A brief history of human relationships with wild, companion and farmed animals will be included. Healing-meditation techniques will be a significant part of the morning session of the Intermediate Training Day.

In the group discussions, you will have the opportunity to discuss how you may wish to develop your skills in the future, to assist animals.

As with all the Earthall® Training, communicating with lovely friendly dogs will be a significant part of the day.

The remaining written course work that forms a necessary and important part of your training and qualification will be given to you. You will then have 6 months to successfully do your assignments and send them in for assessment and marking.
At this stage, email support will be given by your tutor, when needed.

Level Three Synopsis:

Preparing for Practitioner Level:
Self-healing meditation techniques
Applying your meditation skills to healing and communicating with animals
More work with animal energy centres
Developing theory and ethics; including the way that humans treat animals and the history of the human-animal relationship
Animal auras and energy fields
Working with animals at the end of their lives
Your self-care plan for life

LEVEL FOUR: Practitioner

Theory & Practical (two days)

On this level four and the final Training Weekend, there will be a review of all the core tuition and techniques that the Earthall® Animal Healing and Communication Course© has covered.

Day One (theory & practical); during group and individual work, there will be time to explore the specific areas of applying your skills which you are particularly interested in; with more practical hands-on practice with animals. Group discussion will give everyone the opportunity to share experiences.

Day Two (theory only); all the theory and written work already given will be discussed and explained again if necessary. Creative ways to actively help animals in distress will form part of the group work. You will also learn how to cope with the most difficult aspects of working with animals and their human companions.

Holistic Animal Therapy courses are designed to help you find a satisfying direction for your skills. For example, you may wish to work as a Practitioner in: Animal Rescue, Private Therapy, Teaching, etc. It is also hoped you will apply the meditation skills for your own happiness and health, as well as the animals you work with. The more balanced and settled you are in your self, the more animals will respond well to your energy and let you into their own reality.

Level Four Synopsis (including technique review):

Earthall® meditation as a form of communication with animals
Earthall® energy healing
Distant healing
Animal energy centres
Animal auras
Earthall® communication techniques
Your self-care plan for life
Communicating with human companions
The advanced ethics of working with animals
Also included will be:
Physical, mental, emotional and spiritual aspects of animals
Advanced working techniques
More techniques for helping wildlife
How to cope with animal cruelty
How to further deepen your connection with animals
Your written work

The Full Animal Healing & Communication Practitioner Course includes:

1. Four Practical And Theory Sessions (weekends only):

There will be two opportunities to attend the Level One Introduction Day. All the Training Days will be held at weekends and spread over the period between Summer and Spring. Level Four Practitioner will be a two-day weekend event. The course work comprises of a combination of hands-on practice on the course days and on your own plus written work. Your qualification will be given when you successfully complete the five Training Days and all your written assignments.

2. A Printed And Illustrated Course Hand Book:

This will be your guide for all your work, including an overview of each course. There will be space for you to add your own findings, if you wish.

3. A Written* Course, Requiring A Pass Mark Of 80%:

This work will be done by you, at home, with email support if needed. You will have the option of emailing your work for marking or posting your paper copies. You do not need to have a computer or a mobile phone to access this teaching. On your Training Days, you will be taught all you need, providing that you study and complete your written work. Your written course work will be given to you when you attend the training days. It is your responsibility to return it to your tutor.

4. Recorded Case-Studies With Six Animals Of Your Choice:

This will be part of your written course and you will record your experience and results. You must have the animal's human-companion's written permission before you accept the animal as a patient. You will also be sent and use a simple form.

The form will state :
a) It is understood that you are a student;
b) That the animal has been seen by a Vet for any current medical condition;
c) You will receive no fee for your work.
d) That under no circumstances can you diagnose physical illness.

The form will be signed and dated by your self and the animal's human companion.

This is a Practitioner's Course, therefore practical hands-on work and studying in groups at the Teaching Days will be an integral and important part of the course. The aim is to complete the course and achieve a reliably high level of competence and confidence in your skills to work as independently as possible.

5. You will also be required to take a One-Day Refresher Course with Holistic Animal Therapy every 3 years as part of your CPD (Continued Professional Development).

Other optional courses will be available to all successful students of the Animal Healing and Communication Practitioner's Course. Human related courses are also available, please see the links on the website:

www.holisticanimaltherapy.org,uk

Please Note: Spelling and grammar difficulties will not influence your mark, as long as the meaning is clear and you demonstrate you understand the work.

If you have visual/hearing impairments, or other health concerns, please contact the tutor Kate E.A Berridge. Thank you.

About your training provider

I have worked with animals for over 40 years. I began as a teenage volunteer for the RSPCA. I then became a head kennel maid for a national animal charity. For 27 years I worked in animal rescue, alongside many sanctuaries around the UK.

I am a qualified Healer, animal psychologist, adult education teacher and an ethical, down-to-earth person with a commitment to animal well-being.

As well as my teaching school, based near Louth Lincolnshire, I work on a one-to-one basis with animals and their human companions. My courses are suitable for anyone interested in working for animal well-being in a holistic and healing way.

(please see my Facebook page for updates - thank you).
